

As you navigate through Reach Your World, you'll observe Craig Etheredge's approach to bringing the gospel to others. While there is absolutely nothing wrong with his suggested approach, we would like to encourage another method we prefer at The Heights (see below). We believe there is value in a unified approach and in maintaining a repeatable process as disciple-making continues to future generations of disciples.

Our Suggested Approach to Bringing the Gospel to Every Relationship:

At The Heights, you'll hear us refer to the "3 Circles" Method of sharing the gospel with others. You may have seen the picture below which represents this brief and effective way to present the gospel to someone.

To view a training video on how to implement this method and to download the above image, visit www.theheights.org/3circles. Should you need cards with this image, simply contact The Heights and we will be glad to provide as many as you need. As you meet with others in an effort to help them become disciple-makers, please share this method and webpage with them to equip them.
